

TECHNOLOGY SEMINARS FOR SENIORS BY TEENS

- Intimidated by your computer?
- Curious about new technologies?
- Find demonstrations helpful?
- Crave an opportunity to ask questions?

Let Lexington's savvy teens show you how they use today's technologies to communicate with family and friends (Gmail, AOL, hotmail, yahoo, blogs, Skype), participate in social networking sites (Facebook and Twitter), manipulate online digital media (iTunes, YouTube, network TV & radio), shop on e-commerce and e-trade sites (PayPal, eBay, Amazon), and manage photos & pictures (PhotoBucket, Shutterfly).

Watch them demonstrate the latest technological tools like iPhones, mp3 players, downloading to CD's, playaways and others.

“Show and Tell” Technology Seminars (not hands-on).
Space limited to 20 each day.

Signup at the Lexington Senior Center starting Monday, February 22nd.
For more information call Barbara Deveau or Laurie Henry at the Senior Center at 781-861-0194.

Some familiarity with computers will help you get the most out of these sessions. Cary Library's TAB members are assisted by members of the LHS National Honor Society.
